Ring Power and GRU Partnership Benefits Community

Through a valuable partnership with Ring Power, GRU is able to provide businesses with backup generation for their critical needs. The supplier for the generators used in the AttenGen program and some of the heavy equipment used in GRU's power plants, Ring Power is not only a business partner but also an integral part of serving the Gainesville community.

To provide businesses an additional measure of security, GRU offers AttenGen, an onsite standby generating service. Ring Power has been involved in the AttenGen program since its inception, providing routine service and maintenance for the Caterpillar generators used by GRU. With the help of Ring Power, GRU operates generating units for AttenGen customers and for 60 of its own units.

"By partnering with Ring Power, we are able to offer additional expertise, technology and reliable units," said Bill Shepherd, GRU Energy and Business Services Manager. "Ring Power is the local distributor of Caterpillar generators, which we found to be the most qualified product to offer our AttenGen customers."

At the Sixth Annual GRU Business Partners Golf Tournament, Ring Power played an integral part in the tournament's success. As the leading sponsor, Ring Power provided lunch for the participants, donating time and money to the event. The tournament, which directly benefits GRU's Adopt-A-School, Williams Elementary, raised more than $13,000 for the school's educational programs.

"We are proud to have been a part of such a great cause and enjoyed working with GRU to ensure the tournament's success," said Dave Gardner, Ring Power Sales Engineer for Central Florida. "With 12 branches in Florida, Ring Power acknowledges the importance of supporting programs in the communities where we are located."

When businesses like GRU and Ring Power partner, the community is provided both quality service and philanthropic support. Through the AttenGen program and supporting a local school, GRU is committed to fostering relationships that benefit both businesses and community members. GRU, More than Energy™.
